From FDA Warning Letter to Success: Transforming a Culture Through Training

Nick Droste
Program Manager, Operational Excellence
Bora Pharmaceuticals

Nick Droste is a U.S. Army retiree who has focused his military and manufacturing careers on maximizing human performance in high stress environments. Working in the pharmaceutical manufacturing industry after the military, Nick and his teams have built enterprise level systems that deliver process improvements, workforce development tools, and a systems performance culture designed to increase organizational flow through innovation and creative problem solving. Through the creation of Operational Excellence University, Bora employees are provided pathways to certification in Lean Six Sigma, Project Management, Data Analytics, and Human Performance and are introduced to new technologies to support their personal and professional goals.
